AGC of Wisconsin Announces New Officers and 2022 Board of Directors

The Associated General Contractors (AGC) of Wisconsin is proud to announce that Anna Stern will serve as its chapter President for the 2022 term. Stern is currently Vice President of Tri-North Builders based in Madison.

As President of the AGC of Wisconsin, Stern will strive to improve industry life for women and promote the construction industry as a viable career path for younger generations.

“I am honored to be the first female president of the AGC of Wisconsin. I am where I am because I've had the opportunity during my career to work with and learn from some of the best, including this exceptional organization. And it is that foundation of mentoring that we need to build on to develop the future construction workforce, making it a more diverse, inclusive, and accessible industry.” said Stern.

Other officers elected to serve roles on AGC of Wisconsin Board of Directors include Paul Martzke of Immel Construction (Green Bay) as Vice President, Sid Samuels of The Samuels Group (Wausau) as Past President, Ben Kossow of Riley Construction (Kenosha) as Past President and Peter Vogel of Vogel Bros. Building Co. (Madison) as National Director.
